

Visitor Visa

People travelling on a passport from some countries must apply for a Visitor Visa to visit New Zealand. You can stay for up to either 6 months or 9 months. You cannot work, but you can study for up to 3 months.

Apply online (<https://www.immigration.govt.nz/https://apply.immigration.govt.nz/>)

Length of stay

Up to either

6 months or 9 months

Cost

From

NZD $441

Processing time

80% within

2 weeks

To apply you must:

- have plans to leave New Zealand at the end of your stay
- have enough money to pay your living expenses or have an acceptable sponsor
- not plan to work in New Zealand, unless you work remotely for a business overseas
- meet the other requirements of this visa.

This visa lets you:

- holiday in New Zealand
- visit family and friends in New Zealand
- study for up to 3 months
- include your partner and dependent children in your visa application.

We recommend that travellers do not book any non-refundable travel until after their Visitor Visa is approved.

Some people, including citizens of visa waiver countries or territories, can travel to New Zealand with a New Zealand Electronic Travel Authority (NZeTA) instead of a visa.

You do not need a Visitor Visa or an NZeTA if you are an Australian citizen travelling on an Australian passport.

Check if you need an NZeTA or visa

(<https://www.immigration.govt.nz/visit/what-you-need-to-visit-new-zealand/visa-tool-test/>)

Note

If you have a passport from China or a Pacific Islands Forum country and are travelling to New Zealand from Australia with an eligible Australian visa, you can now travel to New Zealand on an NZeTA instead of applying for a Visitor Visa.

How long you can stay

We will issue you either a multiple-entry or a single-entry visa, based on our assessment of your application.

How long you can stay on a Visitor Visa depends on whether you have a multiple-entry or a single-entry visa.

You can stay up to a maximum of 9 months in an 18-month period.

Multiple-entry Visitor Visa

A multiple-entry visa allows you to:

- visit New Zealand as a tourist as many times as you want while your visa is valid, and

- stay for up to a total of 6 months in each 12-month period.

The 12-month period is calculated back from the last day you intend to be in New Zealand (your intended departure date).

For example, if the last day you plan to be in New Zealand is 1 December 2024, your 12-month period will begin on 1 December 2023.

To be eligible, you must have been out of New Zealand for at least 9 months in the 18-month period before you apply.

Visitors from the Pacific

If you have a passport from a Pacific Islands forum country, you may be eligible for a 24-month multiple-entry Visitor Visa. If your passport is close to expiring or if you do not meet all the requirements for a Visitor Visa, you may not be eligible. Check the full requirements on this page before applying.

Single-entry Visitor Visa

We may give you a single-entry visa if:

- you want to visit New Zealand for more than 6 months
- you have applied to extend your current stay in New Zealand, or
- we decide you do not need a multiple-entry visa.

This lets you enter New Zealand once and stay for up to 9 months in an 18-month period.

The 18-month period is calculated back from your planned departure date.

For example, if the last day you plan to be in New Zealand is 1 December 2024, your 18-month period will begin on 1 June 2023.

Alert

If you have a single-entry Visitor Visa and you leave the country, your visa will expire.

Who can apply

To apply for this visa you must:

- be in good health
- be of good character
- have genuine reasons for coming to New Zealand
- have enough money to pay your living expenses, or have an acceptable sponsor
- show you can leave New Zealand at the end of your stay.

Who can sponsor a visa applicant

Health

You must be in good health.

We may ask you to have a chest X-ray, a medical examination or both as proof of your health.

If you are staying less than:

- 6 months, you do not normally need a chest X-ray

- 12 months, you do not normally need a medical certificate.

When you apply, you must answer questions about your health. This helps to decide if you need to provide evidence of a chest X-ray or medical examination. Even if you do not need these when you apply, we may ask for them when we process your application.

Check the situations where we may ask you to have a chest X-ray or medical examination.

Who needs an X-ray or medical examination

How to get an X-ray or medical examination

Why you may need to provide evidence you are in good health

Note

Evidence of a chest X-ray or medical examination must be less than 3 months old when we receive them.

If staying for more than 6 months

If you will stay in New Zealand for more than 6 months, you must have a chest X-ray if you:

- are a citizen of a country that does not have a low incidence of tuberculosis (TB), or
- have spent more than 3 months in the last 5 years in a country that does not have a low incidence of TB.

You must provide a new chest X-ray certificate, even if you have provided one to us previously, if you:

- have spent 6 months in a row in a country that does not have a low incidence of TB since the date of your last X-ray certificate, and

- are now coming to New Zealand for more than 6 months — if you are in New Zealand this includes any time you have already spent here.

Countries with a low incidence of tuberculosis

Character

You must be of good character.

You may need to provide police certificates as proof of your good character.

If you have a criminal conviction, or are a security risk to New Zealand, we might not give you a visa.

Character requirements for New Zealand visas

You must provide police certificates that are less than 6 months old when you apply, if:

- you are aged 17 or older, and
- your total time in New Zealand will be 24 months or longer — this includes time you spent in New Zealand in the past on other visas.

Police certificates must be from:

- countries you are a citizen of, and
- countries you have spent more than 5 years in since you turned 17.

You do not need to provide police certificates if you provided them with an earlier visa application and they were issued in the last 24 months.

If we ask for a new police certificate when processing your application, you will need to send us a new one.

Police certificates

Genuine intentions

You must be a genuine visitor to New Zealand and intend to leave at the end of your visit.

When we decide if your intentions are genuine, we will consider all the information that:

- you provide to support your application
- we have about your personal circumstances
- you have previously given to us.

Genuine intentions to visit or work in New Zealand

Note

If you are visiting New Zealand for a conference and your group involves 30 or more international visitors, we recommend your event organiser lets Immigration New Zealand know. We can help them to assist attendees in applying for the right visa and travelling to New Zealand.

Enough money to live on

You must have enough money to live on while you are in New Zealand or have an acceptable sponsor.

If you are paying for yourself

You must have at least NZD $1,000 a month, or NZD $400 a month if you have already paid for your accommodation.

Evidence can include:

- proof of accommodation pre-payment, like hotel pre-paid vouchers or receipts
- bank statements or credit card statements
- bank drafts or traveller's cheques.

If you have a sponsor

Your sponsor is responsible for you while you are in New Zealand — they can be an organisation or an individual.

Who can sponsor a visa applicant

Your responsibilities as a sponsor

(<https://www.immigration.govt.nz/process-to-apply/applying-for-a-visa/sponsoring-someone-on-a-visa/sponsorship-process-for-a-visa/>)

Your sponsor must complete a Sponsorship Form for Temporary Entry.

Your sponsor can provide supporting documents including:

- recent bank statements
- pay slips

- their employment agreement
- ownership papers for your accommodation or receipts for rent payments.

Paying for health care

You or your sponsor will need to pay for any health care or medical assistance you may need in New Zealand.

We recommend you have full medical insurance for your stay.

If you are pregnant, there are additional requirements.

If you are pregnant

Note

Partner and dependent children

You can include your partner and any dependent children aged 19 or younger in your visa application, or they can apply for their own visas.

To include family in your application:

- you must provide evidence of your relationship with them, for example, marriage and birth certificates
- you must provide evidence of their identity
- they must be of good character and in good health.

Partnership and how to prove it

Bringing children

Note

Tell us if family members are travelling with you and have applied for their own separate visa. Write a letter that includes each member's full name, date of birth, passport number, and visa application number if known. Include the letter in your visa application.

Leaving New Zealand

You must be able to show that you plan to leave the country at the end of your stay.

If you are paying for yourself, you will need to provide:

- your ticket for travel out of New Zealand at the end of your stay to a country you have the right to enter, or
- documents, such as bank or credit card statements, that show you have enough money to buy a ticket.

If you will return to a Schengen member state after your visit, but are not a citizen of a member state, evidence of your right to enter that country is a current copy of your Schengen visa.

Note

The money for your ticket must be in addition to what you have to live on.

If you are sponsored and you do not have a return ticket, your sponsor can provide recent bank statements to show they have enough money to buy you a ticket out of New Zealand.

Documents you need

When you apply

Note

We receive a high number of Visitor Visa applications over summer, especially from people wanting to visit during Christmas. We suggest you submit your application as soon as possible to avoid delays.

Make sure you include all relevant documents with your application to ensure quick processing

When you apply, you will need to provide:

- a copy of your passport or certificate of identity — if you apply on paper, you can provide a certified copy , but it can prevent delays if you provide the original
- 1 acceptable photo if you apply online, or 2 photos if you apply on paper
- police certificates, if required
- evidence of a chest X-ray, if required
- evidence of a medical examination, if required
- proof you have enough money to live on
- proof of your plans in New Zealand to show you are a genuine visitor
- proof you can leave New Zealand at the end of your stay
- documents to show your relationship with your partner and dependent children, proof of their identity and acceptable photos, if you are including them
- a copy of the completed Additional Dependents for a Visitor Visa form, if required
- a copy of the completed Sponsorship Form for Temporary Entry, if you have a sponsor
- your sponsor's sharing ID, if required for an online application
- translated versions of all your documents if they are not in English.

You must also provide a copy of your identity card and copies of identity cards for family members included in your application.

After you apply

After you apply, we may contact you and ask for:

- evidence of a medical examination or chest X-ray
- police certificates as proof of your good character.

When you arrive

When you arrive, you will need to have:

- a ticket to leave New Zealand at the end of your stay, proof you have enough money to buy one, or agreement that a sponsor will pay for one

- proof you have enough money to live on for your stay in New Zealand.

Entry requirements

As part of New Zealand's entry requirements, everyone must complete a New Zealand Traveller Declaration (NZTD). This form collects information about your travel, including customs, immigration, and biosecurity details.

When you can submit your NZTD depends on how you're travelling:

- By air: You can submit it from 24 hours before your journey begins.
- By sea: You can submit it from 24 hours before your ship leaves its last overseas port heading to New Zealand.

If you have an NZeTA, you can specify in your declaration that you are applying for a visa on arrival.

A paper declaration form is available for travellers who cannot complete it online.

New Zealand Traveller Declaration

(<https://www.immigration.govt.nz/https://www.travellerdeclaration.govt.nz/>)

New Zealand Customs and Biosecurity also check that you meet their entry requirements.

Alert

You can be refused entry permission if you:

- are not a genuine visitor
- do not meet our character requirements
- have had a change in circumstances since we issued your visa
- refuse to let us take your photo, fingerprints or an iris scan
- cannot provide evidence of any onward travel or the money required to leave New Zealand.

Genuine intentions to visit or work in New Zealand

What might stop you from being allowed to enter New Zealand

While you are in New Zealand

Your visa conditions are recorded in your eVisa.

Travel

If you are travelling in and out of New Zealand, your visa must have a valid multiple-entry travel condition so you can return to New Zealand.

Check or change your visa conditions

(<https://www.immigration.govt.nz/process-to-apply/once-you-have-a-visa/manage-your-visa-and-passport/check-or-change-your-visa-conditions/>)

Alert

If your visa does not have a multiple-entry travel condition and you leave New Zealand, your visa will expire.

Every time you travel here, you must have a ticket to leave New Zealand or proof you have enough money to buy one — unless your visa states 'Return/onward travel not required'.

Work

You cannot work in New Zealand on this visa, however, you may be able to volunteer or work remotely for an employer or client based outside New Zealand.

Working remotely in New Zealand on a visitor visa

If you want to do business while you visit New Zealand, apply for a Business Visitor Visa.

Business Visitor Visa (<https://www.immigration.govt.nz/visas/business-visitor-visa/>)

If you are visiting New Zealand for a special purpose, such as a work requirement, joining a partner, or travelling for a work conference, apply for a visitor visa that matches your reason for coming here.

If you are travelling for a conference

If you are in New Zealand for a conference and do any activity for gain or reward that is not an exception for a visitor visa in Immigration New Zealand rules, we will consider you to be working. This will mean you need to have a work visa, not a visitor visa.

Exceptions include remote working for an overseas business and official business in the service of any government.

Study

You can study for up to 3 months in any 12-month period.

School-aged children can study for up to 3 months in any calendar year. If they wish to study for more than 3 months in New Zealand, they will need to apply for a student visa.

Note

If children are going to be studying for more than 2 weeks, their education provider must be a signatory to the Education (Pastoral Care of Tertiary and International Learners) Code of Practice 2021.

Find out if an education provider is a signatory, and how the code protects international students.

Staying longer

If you are in New Zealand now with a Visitor Visa and need more time for a genuine reason, you can apply to extend your visit.

You must apply for a new Visitor Visa before your current visa expires.

If we approve your application, we will give you a new Visitor Visa for single-entry.

How long you can stay on the new visa depends on our assessment of your application. You can stay up to a maximum of 9 months in an 18-month period.

Your current visa will expire when you get your new visa.

Note

If your current temporary visa is going to expire while you are waiting for our decision, we will normally issue you an Interim Visa to let you stay in New Zealand lawfully.
